World Port Development, now in its 17th year of successfully serving the industry, has firmly established itself as a leading industry journal.

Port and terminal operations are playing an increasingly important role in the safe and efficient transportation of cargo all over the world. We at World Port Development know this and dig deep to highlight the main issues at the centre of an industry that never sleeps and constantly evolves.

Building on our monthly surveys, we have researched our Top 100 Container Ports Supplement to provide you with information that is accurate and up-to-date. We have spoken to Port Authorities, Government Bodies and Terminal Operators, researching container traffic statistics from 2016 and 2015, gathering predictions for growth and projected container throughput, but more importantly, finding out exactly what is happening in each port and what kind of investments are planned for the future.
